

CONTENT

PORTFOLIOS

DESERTS OF THE WORLD 6

Michael Martin journeyed thousands of miles through the many deserts of the world. For five years he climbed high mountain passes, shoveled deep sands and cruised exotic oases and brought us a diverse photographic array of desert landscapes and its peoples

MADE BY HAND 54

Leather, glue and lasts – Jürgen Holzenleuchter photographed the production line of Trippen shoemakers at work. A stirring tribute to a fading handcraft

TECHNOLOGY

TAMING STUDIO LIGHT 22

Designing artificial light for photography is part creativity, part craft. A two-part workshop explores the particles and beams of composing with light. Part 1: tabletop photography

DIGITAL MODULE R: A MIGHTY STEED? 32

Leica's digital back unit has arrived and must now measure up to the competition. Our lab and field comparison with Canon's royal stud, the EOS 1Ds Mk II, reveals insightful details

LEICA À LA CARTE 38

Since photokina 2004 Leica customers have been indulging in the full flavour of personalised MPs and M7s. How has this been received worldwide? An interim report

FILMSCANNERS FROM 1000 EUROS 42

The third and final part of our scanner check: what to expect from the upper class

COMPOSITION IN BLACK AND WHITE 48

LFI ACADEMY Landscape photography today: escaping the temptation of romance through compositional fantasy

SECTIONS

EDITORIAL 4

EXHIBITIONS 20

PREVIEW / IMPRINT 66

Jürgen Holzenleuchter: Shoe production, Italy (page 54)
Leica à la carte: Now in blue and Bordeaux red (page 38)
Michael Martin: Alashan desert, China (page 6)

Cover: Michael Martin, Kasakh in the Altai Mountains